

Iain Ruxton MA (Hons); PLDA
Design Associate

Iain studied at the University of Glasgow and, whilst working as a graphic designer, became interested in lighting design for its mix of both creative and technical skills

Iain has over 11 years of experience as a lighting designer joining Jonathan Speirs and Associates in 1996. During these years he has worked on a large variety of projects including: Burj Al Arab and Jumeriah Beach in Dubai, HBOS Headquarters in Edinburgh, The Lighthouse in Glasgow and Pulrose Power Station on the Isle of Man.

Several of the projects that Iain has worked on have been selected for awards including: IIDA awards in 2000 for the Burj Al Arab and the Lighthouse in Glasgow, an IALD award in 2005 for Pulrose Power Station and an IIDA award in 2007 for HBOS Headquarters in Edinburgh.

He has lectured at numerous events speaking on items ranging from LEDs in architectural lighting to Energy Efficiency Issues. He has also had articles published in both the national and international press.

Iain is a keen photographer, lives in Edinburgh and is married with one child.
